Update: Importing Dogs Into the United StatesWhat are the requirements for bringing my pet dog into the U.S.?

Dog owners may be required to have several different documents upon entry into the United States depending on the dog's breed, origin, and destination. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention requires that all dogs arriving into the United States must be healthy and have proof of a valid rabies certificate. Dogs that have never been vaccinated against rabies must be vaccinated at least 30 days before entering the United States. Puppies must not be vaccinated against rabies before 3 months of age, so the youngest that a puppy can be imported into the United States is 4 months of age. The rabies vaccination requirement applies to all dogs, including service animals. The only exception is for dogs that are arriving from areas designated as being rabies-free that have lived there for at least the last 6 months or since birth.

The rabies vaccination certificate should include:

- Name and address of owner
- Breed, sex, age, color, markings, and other identifying information for the dog
- Date of rabies vaccination and vaccine product information
- Date the vaccination expires
- Name, license number, address, and signature of veterinarian

Questions about importing unvaccinated dogs may be directed to CDC at CDCAAnimalImports@cdc.gov.

Pet owners should check with the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) as well as their destination state or territory for additional requirements to import dogs.
